“ It's almost your birthday momma. I'm so upset you're not here with us. My brother and I are tired of your grands. It's too much to write but I know you and God are watching this mess. I feel bad for my grandkids on levels I know you never had to worry about. I had things more together by the time mines started school. These kids don't even understand that they have outside of the family eyes now watching them as parents. Like I said it's a lot and I don't have any of my close elders to lean on not even my best friend so this makes things so much harder for me to deal with and process. Right now I'm trusting that God will eventually give my kids the strength to move and do better as woman and as moms. The ones that claim independence still lean on my brother and I and can't none of them gain their own places without a man's help. I just don't understand. Anyway I love you momma and miss you and all you brought to our lives. Things will never be the same again.

“ We lost Malachi mama. I'm so upset and I don't understand what God's plan is, but I don't see how I can look at my daughter's boyfriend in the same manner anymore without being so upset about this situation. Please help me you and God to find clarity and strength during this horrible time in my life.

“ Hey mommy,

I missed you this holiday season 😞 As time goes on all I have in this world who knows what it's truly like not to have you here with us anymore is my brother. Yes it's been almost 7yrs but I can still hear the words coming out your brother's mouth to me. SMH as January approaches I feel the uneasy feeling creeping up inside me. I'm hoping I'm okay when the 30th arrives next month. I'm hoping I can cope as well as I did this year. They always say time heals all things smh that's definitely not true. Time will never heal for us. The void you left us all here on Earth has lingered and touched us all in so many ways. I'm terrified of losing anyone else or the not knowing of what's to come in the new year. Anyway Merry Belated Heavenly Christmas 🎄 momma. I have a few holiday photos I'll share with you on New Year okay.

“ As promised and I’m definitely sure you have a big hand in this but you have another great grand on the way 😍 It’s a BOY 💙🖤💙 I know your smiling down on us all about that ☐ Guess you wanted to even the kids out huh. Now you’ll have 2 boys and 2 girls. Can you believe the legacy you’ve left behind. I heard all you wanted outta life was to be a mother and have a legacy and now you do momma. I’m just so sorry they’re only meeting you before they reach earth and now while you’re here in the flesh to spend time with them. Please help 🙏 God watch after Zai and our new baby. Keep them safe from evil and harm and protect her pregnancy and delivery. We miss you I’ll be back soon 😘

“ Hey momma it's been about 8 months since I last was on here. Life has been lifing all year but I know it's all apart of God's plans. So since I last wrote you we celebrated a few holidays including your birthday. For Easter I took your great grands to Disney on Ice. For your birthday we all gathered at Golden Corral your favorite buffet lunch place and enjoyed dinner together as a family. We even invited Zai's new boyfriend to come along. I had a seafood plate with fish, hush puppies and fries just as you loved. Then I also had a small plate of fried chicken with corn another one of your favorite meals. My brother and I spent the day thinking and talking about you and all the funny things you use to do and say. It helped the day be much lighter and lifted our spirits to think about the good times we all shared. Although I didn't share the photos I took both your granddaughters to concerts in the Spring. Just to get some mommy time in with my daughters while I got the chance to see their faces light up when watching their favorite artist on stage. This year Zai got extremely disrespectful with her mouth and ways and she almost left California to return to Florida with her father. However of course she remained here and she further dove into the word of the Lord. She attends church now and she's learning more about the Bible and the road parents plays when it comes to their children when their grown. She got Baptized can you believe it 🙌 All on her own too 🙏 So I'm glad she's found him so she can start looking in the mirror of her own life choices. I This year as a pre birthday celebration I went to NY momma. I had a friend living their that's been here every step of the way since we lost Jon and you. He's been my late night can't sleep phone conversationalist and over time he became my best friend. We've had feelings stirring up for a while now but we finally decided what we could be together. After I left NY he came back to California with us. So that's all been an adjustment for us all now living with a man. It had been 8 long years since we had to make this adjustment. But 6 months in we're making things work. He's having difficulty finding work but that's to be expected coming into a new state. However he does put food in the house and he helps us all keep up the house so he's not lazy nor no bum. I think you would genuinely love him and he's goals for this family and our future. After his arrival Tre'Mia and her boo Larry made it home to visit us. It was a week filled with laughter and tears as our beloved Bayley did get sick while she was in town. We took her and Larry to get a rental so they had the best time exploring California on their own. I also was able to get us a new set of family photos done with everyone including the kids I know for sure you would when wanted the biggest ones. After Tre'Mia returned home our Bayley passed away. Then we had Billy's and Vanessa's funeral services which you know we lost them both in May just a day apart. So the first few weeks of June was hard to cope with for me at least. Then Jakeem graduated preschool and we celebrated at Chuckie Cheese his favorite place 😭. Next we celebrated the 4th at the beach as a family. Then Jakeem turned 5 momma 🥰 He had so much fun celebrating but of course all I could think about that day was how much I wished you were here with us. How long you've now been gone since I mark his birth by the time we actually lost you just a year earlier. As he reaches each new milestone my mind can't help but to wonder just how much you would have been here to help us shape this boy. Then he started kindergarten in Aug and that was another milestone I know your missing. School for him at first was trying but we are working with the school to get him all the help he needs and deserves. Then we got some big news I'm going to share that alone in my next post. We moved into a bigger two bedroom apartment which I think you would love the design and layout providing the kids can help keep things clean. Next we celebrated grandmas 91st birthday after she gave us one of the biggest scares passing out at our family picnic. Now I'm even more concerned about her living all alone but she has always said if she couldn't live with you she wanted to live alone and she's standing by that I guess. Family is more in turned to her daily activities now so I do feel better about others looking out for her more. After grandmas day our little Dream turned 4 and she also enjoyed her celebration. Both your grands collected plenty of gifts for their birthdays. Then we just finished celebrating the Halloween season. Now as we prepare for your favorite holidays your on my mind more and more these days. Trump is now back in office and the year with him hasn't been good at all. He's trying to strip the due rights away from citizens in this country. Even right now as in writing you we are dealing with a whole second government shutdown but now he's taking peoples stamps and money they need to survive. It's a whole mess and it's a lot to deal with for our family. I'm doing. My best to keep things afloat but I know I can't do anything without God's and your help. I miss you terribly 💔 Life just isn't life without you. I promise I won't stay away so long again 😞

“ I miss you so much momma. I don't think I ever thought about your death until after we lost you. I dk why I guess I just never seen you not being here to yell at me, give me advice or help me with the kids in some way. I'm not sure if anyone ever thinks about loosing their parents. It's almost like kids thinks their parents are the ones with super powers that can live on forever 😞 Life today seems so strange without your input or thoughts. It's uncomfortable to not have the ability to call and share things with you. There's also a deep sadness and a sense of fear moving through this life without you. It's a sense of lost within myself as a grandmother and mother to kids with kids now. Am I saying the right things to help them or hurt them. Am I helping them to much or not enough. When it comes to all things dealing with my heath I'm afraid of it all. I'm scared to see about my eyesight. I'm afraid I'll forever have the lowest iron levels and will be on medication the rest of my life. I'm even afraid of all the normal testing such as my mammograms done yearly. Who do I turn to when I don't have you here with me to comfort and support me. I couldn't even get a fever without calling and leaning you when I was scared. It's so much momma even with my brother and his side of the family. I miss our chats and us bouncing his issues off each other so we could come up with solutions to help him. He still feels just as lost as I do. It's been 6yrs this year and I still feel like we just lost you yesterday. Every single day I still wanna just break down and cry. God didn't even give us a chance to say goodbye to you or anything. I'm so afraid now that maybe my kids won't get that chance as well. It's a such a horrible feeling to have to live with momma. Life isn't fair it just isn't. Every day I wake up and pretend like I'm alright in this world when I'm really not. I leaned on you more than you even really knew and now I just feel like I have no one. Anyway I just wanted to talk to you. Your birthday is coming up and so we are planning our annual birthday celebration dinner for you this Sunday at Golden Corral one of your favorite restaurants 😍 Tho it's never the same without hearing your voice and laughter on that day. Before I go I took a cute Valentines Day photo with your great grandkids and you'll be happy to know that Zai was invited to a pre Oscars party! As her plus one she took her sister with her. They both looked gorgeous and I know you and God kept our watchful hands over them that night and I am so grateful. Please please tell me or show us that we are on the right track with her career. Donald Trump is now back in office so at this time I'm not sure what college for Zai will even look like this summer. But I am hopeful that she can land somewhere really fast. Love you so much and I miss you 😭

“ Okay mamma I forgot to mention that u did treat myself this year by taking myself to a concert for the holiday. I also forgot to tell you that we did have lunch out on Nee Year day just to get out the house since we had celebrated at home this year.here are the holiday and new year photos. I love and miss you so much 💔 The holidays are so much harder without you! Help me get through January, February and March without bringing myself and this family down. These are the hardest months for me now after loosing you, Jon and Tamika they just bring me so much sadness now. Help me remain strong and busy at work cause I know you see me struggling there as well.

“ Hey Momma I miss you Happy New Year 🌟 I know it's been since Halloween since I last wore you but I hope you liked our Christmas flowers this year. I know they want huge but we wanted to at least let you know you were with us this past holiday season. It's been a whole lot going on as I'm sure you are well aware. Hug uncle Les for me and help him find Auntie if he hasn't already. Three days into the new year and we loose uncle Les. Of course it would be right after the year begins as we have you in our hearts and minds as the day we traumatically lost you! I feel bad for our cousins because I know the new year will always bring them a bit of pain or sorrow like it does for me. Anyway I just wanted to come on here and update you on the holidays and the new year mainly. I'm sure you were with us but as a recap Thanksgiving day went well. We kept our menu simple and just enjoyed being at home with one another and great food! Your baby turned 21 this year so I took her out for lunch as I do all my girls. We went to Apple Bees had drinks and a great meal. Well they had a meal I'm still trying to eat so I just ordered a plate of appetizers. I gave a toast spoke about you a little bit and then we came home and celebrated with cake for the kids mainly. Jakeem is at the age now that he is truly learning when the cake is due lol!! for the kids mainly. For your favorite holiday we did take the grandkids to a Christmas parade for the first time. They both really seemed to enjoy it so much. We opted out of Santa photos again simply because we really just didn't have the extra money with all the gifts and bills we had to maintain. Plus we planned and went to take your great grands to the movies on Christmas Day which we had so much fun going! Well prepared most of our Christmas dinner the night before while the kids were opening up a few gifts so that we wouldn't have to do much cooking Christmas Day which made going to the early afternoon showings perfect! Zai, her boyfriend and Jakeem went to see the new Sonic the Hedgehog movie and Niyah and I took Dream to see the new Moana 2 movie. After that we headed home ate and the kids road their new bikes till dark. For New Year surprisingly everyone stayed in including Mia! We grabbed our smoke bottle played music and just had fun together. We FaceTimed Mia at midnight her time and did a toast with her as well as with one of my friends. We made our family calls grandma was up waiting on our calls lol and this year even my dad was up so we got to talk to him as well. Over all I can't complain I'm really trying to keep moving forward like you would want. However I must admit I've started taking therapy to help me cope better with all the losses we've had to endure. Each year gets harder and harder for me not easier. Anyway I'm upload Zia's birthday celebration here and then I will come back and add the holiday and new year photos on here for you just in case you didn't see them.

“ Halloween day 2024 mama! So the kids actually walked the majority of the day! They both dressed up like the Mario Brothers, so Jakeem was Mario and Dream was Princess Peach . This was the first year that both of the kids walked the majority of the time you would have been proud! Mama, they said happy Halloween then said Trick-or-treat, Then said thank you to people. It was a really fun day and a great experience for me to see my grandkids grow and learn what Halloween was all about. The only thing I kept thinking about was how much fun I was having and how much joy it would have brought you to see the videos and the pictures. I did send them to Auntie and to Grandma. I sent videos firsts, and then I sent photos and Grandma thought I only sent videos and went to fussing about it and then realized the next morning that I had sent the photos to. Anyway, as usual as they get older with every milestone that they cross, I miss sharing it with you. I never thought I would be a grandmother without you being here! Thank you for showing me what being a grandmother was and for all that you did to cover my brother's kid's as well. The way that we grandparent our grandchildren is because of you. Always know that you didn't leave a big imprint in both my brother and I we love you and we always miss you 🥹💔

“ Hey momma,

I guess anyone who still comes on here would think I was crazy for sharing photos with you here. I guess I do it because I would share these with you in life. You would be so proud of your grandkids and great grands. We took them to Mr Jack-o'-lanterns pumpkin patch this year. It was a new pumpkin patch that we decided to try so that we can see what else the state of California has to offer for the kids. They did really, really good this year mama they even went to the petting Zoo and they petted the animals, and they held the chickens. Your girls seem to really enjoy being with their babies this year since they're now both walking and at the age that everything is really fun. The only thing we were really missing was calling you and telling you about our day. We all love you. We all miss you and I hope that even if you cannot be here in life to see me share these photos that from the heavens above, you are seeing me share these photos with you on here. I love you and I miss you.

“ Hey momma I’m sorry it’s been 3 months since I last got on here. Since our last conversation Jakeem has turned the big 4 and Dream just turned and big 3 🥰 We took Keemie to the water park for the first time and Dream to the La Zoo for the first time 🗄️ It was so much fun introducing them to all the fun at the park and zoo that I really missed sharing this experience with you! As I’m sure you’re aware it’s been a whole lot going on in the family over these last few months. Auntie’s cancer diagnosis has really upset the whole family. I know for me don’t none of it seem fare. Why should grandma have to continue to suffer, why should most of our family suffer once again! Loosing you, Jon and Tamika was enough for me and now we’re back here again! I’m trying to be strong. I’m trying not to panic but deep inside I am terrified for Auntie and I don’t even have words for Twaun or Alicia. I mean what can I say to any of this. So for now I’m trying to leave this in God’s hands and I’m trying to watch my own heart and stress level so that your worries for me won’t come to fruition about my heart I know there’s really nothing I can do and I know that I’m not God and I know I can’t change anything that’s going on. All I can do is ask you to watch over all of us watch over me watch over my brother watch over Auntie watch over Grandma in case this is Auntie’s time and be ready for Auntie because she’s not really afraid to leave us. She’s more afraid of how we gonna deal with this after she’s gone. anyway, I wish you was here to share these photos with for me to laugh with you about the things that these grandkids are yours are doing and I wish that I could talk to you about everything going on with Auntie and I still miss Jon and I leaned on you so much for that. Anyway, mama, I’ll be back around Halloween so I can show you what the kids are going out for Halloween and we’ll talk more! I might have some more information on Auntie and the family’s rest in peace. I love you always and forever! You’re one and only daughter!

“ Hey mommy I miss you. I’m sorry it’s been a while since my last visit here but it’s been a whole lot going on as I’m sure you are aware of all things now. Your great grandkids are all growing up so fast it bothers me so much that you aren’t here to witness any of it. How was Mother’s Day for you up in heaven? I’m sure you were surrounded by all our loved ones. For mines I took myself to another concert to help lift my spirits again. Mother’s Day is a sad day for me now of course as you know it’s hard celebrating a holiday you have no mother too call or send gifts too. Anyway thank you and God for working Zai’s school finances out for us. I know God worked on it but I’m extremely sure you had the biggest hand in it! Also thank you for helping me work on my credit. I remember how important you use to stress about how important it is to keep up with your scores and you was right to the core. It’s all I can do since we never got anything after we lost you! I hope you’re proud of me for not reacting to the people that wronged my brother and I. I’m sure you and God is working things out for your kids and great grands. Some day it’ll all come to light I’m sure of it. Your baby is almost 4 momma. We have just a few short days and he’ll be the big 4! It’s bitter sweet since he came here looking dead on you lol! I so wish you could have met him little self in person. I’ll attach some updated pics of them here okay. Anyway momma I love and miss you tremendously! “Hi momma I miss you. It's been another 2 months since I've had the chance to come on here and talk to you. I miss talking to you at night. You were always the one person I knew would answer after 11pm and we can chat for a while especially when we had a lot going on in our lives. So as you know since my last post we've lost 4 of our sweet cats and they're lost was traumatic on the whole family momma. I'm still trying to hold Tre'Mia up behind the sudden death of her sister and I'm always checking in on grandma now that we've lost grandpa Stan. I miss him terribly I miss him answering the phone when I call grandma. I miss him asking me about the kids and what I myself had going on. I miss some of the advice he would give me when we would just chat a minute when grandma wasn't home when I called. I just miss him and I'm so thankful he got the chance to meet Jakeem & Dream before he left us. Can you hug him for me if he's with you? I know you will and I know you both know how worried I am about grandma being alone but I also know that you all have your arms wrapped around her daily. Anyway since my last post Dream has had another birthday she's now the big 2 lol. She's mean to momma a True Libra girl just like grandma. We've had Halloween we celebrated as well as Thanksgiving since my last post. Around all those holidays I've just been working and trying not to worry about things so much. You know how I can be with that so I'm doing my best without you here to calm me. Thank you for sending dad to step in just when I need him. At this point he's all we have left in this world parent wise. Although he could never be you. I'm going to try my best to come see you this summer momma. I'm going to try to drive down when we come home for Si's graduation. A day should do it if I plan it right so I will try. In the meantime I miss you even you yelling or being mad at me. Life on Earth just isn't the same without u in it. In closing I'm leaving a few memories I mentioned over the last few months. I'll be back to see you Christmas Day I promise. Until we chat again I'll be missing you 😞

“ Hey momma it's been about 2 months since I last wrote you. I'm sorry it's been a while but as you've been watching you know my brother and I both have a whole lot to deal with on our plates. I know you have got to be proud of us both for just doing what we can to help your babies in life despite having little to no money to do it. We offer our homes, time and babysitting for your great grands as much as we can without causing our own self's harm. So since I last wrote 3 of the kids have grown up another year what a blessing right. Your eldest baby turned 26 in July can you believe it lol. Ms Sisi turned the big 18 and then your great grandson turned the big 3. Your first born step granddaughter Saiyr turned the big 1 as well so we've had birthdays back to back pretty much since July began. I missed you at all their celebrations big or small your presence was missed deeply. Grandma is doing her best to let me call, chat, laugh and talk about all issues with her but you know it's not exactly the same as talking to you. Anyway I'm attaching a great birthday celebration pic of Jakeem & Dream Denise here. I want them to never forget who you were in this world and I hope you enjoy watching them grow even tho you can't be here in the flesh. I miss you more with each passing day. “ Hey momma I’m missing you 😔 a whole lot today. I’m feeling a bit stressed out but that’s because it’s a whole lot going on with Zai’s schooling these bills and all. Everyone is doing well tho and I wanted you to know I see your whole nose on your newest little bundle Jaia boo 😍 I use to always think Tk had your nose especially when y’all would stand side by side but now I know she has it lol Jaia looks a whole lot like you, her momma, Kaleb, her aunt Sisi and she had the nerve to come here looking dead on me in your arms as a baby momma. I know you been up there in heaven laughing at Kaleb and I watching us become grandparents for the first time and all. I still really wish you were here to share it all with us. It’s been nice to make sure grandma gets her time to know them all but you know what I’m saying she’s still not you. Now momma I need your help with how we should proceed with our stepfather. We don’t know if we should just put our lives into his hands or should we fight for what we know you would have wanted your grandkids to have? I’ve searched we’ve spoken to people but we still don’t know how to proceed or even if we should momma. All we know is that we have rights in the state of Georgia. If you can send me some type of sign on what we should do I would greatly appreciate that so much. Anyway I love and miss you more than anyone knows. “Hi Momma I can hear you calling me and saying “Happy Birthday daughter you’re getting old aren’t you” then we would laugh and you would ask me my age. Well Happy Birthday to me I’m 45 today. It’s one of my big birthday milestones and I so wish I could share it with you. I miss my birthday calls and calls from you. I miss you telling me I’m getting old. “Hey grandma, I hope you know I miss you so much. And I really hope you’re looking down on me and proud of how far I have come. I’m really trying everyday to hold myself together through all this stuff in life lately. But sometimes I wish I could just have you here to wrap your arms around me so I can cry. It’s not the same your gone. The light in my life is fading away, and I just really need to know that you’re at least proud of how far I have come. And all the things I have done. I love you always grandma💜

“ Hi momma it's been a whole lot going on sheeesh. I'm glad I know you know and see all things now so I know you're aware of it all. You now have 4 great grandchildren can you believe that. Can you thank God & I'm thanking you for answering my prayers. As you know labor and delivery is always a scary time in a woman life so I'm so thankful both Tk & baby girl are both healthy and safe. Isn't she just the cutest baby momma. She looks like Kaleb, Si, Tk and myself to me well at least for now she does. I hope this new chapter brings my niece so much more piece as I know how much you meant to her she mourns you herself in her own way. As for the rest of your babies everyone's been okay pretty much. As you know we're still working on Si getting better but I'm glad you came to her. I'm hoping sharing this page with her helps her in anyway possible. As for your own babies Kaleb and I have been struggling in life a little bit more here lately. I'm kinda stumped on our next move with we've got going on money and job wise but I'm hoping we gain the answers we need to move forward. If there's anyway you or God can help us please point us in the right direction. Anyway I'm really missing you and all of our talks. Life's different and more difficult without you. I'm dancing more now but only to help me not drown in my sorrows you know. Send big prayers that all my results comes back in a positive way. At this point in my life I don't know how much more I can take if it's not good news. Also real quick help me with Sag baby cause momma if you could see her now I would be calling you daily about that one lol but then again your probably laughing at me up there. Well anyway I'm going to let you go momma. I love and miss you every moment of my day. I love you

“ I’m lighting this candle for you momma and I’m coming to you today but I’m so scared for SiSi and Kaleb. I’m not sure how much more my brother can take momma as he now is so scared something is really wrong with Si.

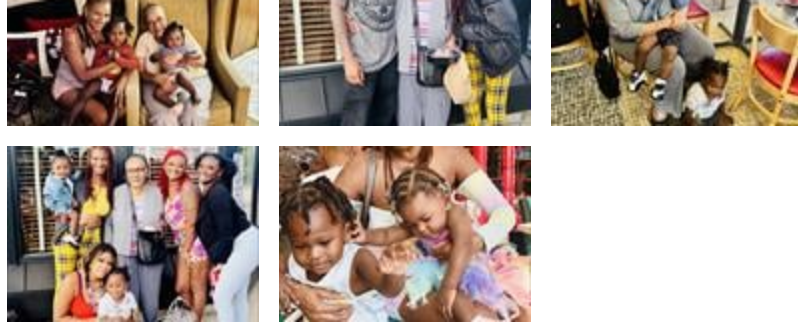

Whatever is going on with her please 🙏 her with God and find out why. Ask him to cover her. Keep his arms wrapped around her and guide these doctors minds and hands so that they can clearly find her correct diagnosis and so that they can clearly understand how to treat her and make her well again. If God takes her it’s going to kill my brother momma and I’m just not sure I’m going to be able to go on without you and him. Loosing you has already taken so much life outta of us. On top of that Jerry has been telling all types of lies to us and that’s been hard to deal with in its own self. It’s on my brother’s mind so much all the lies he’s told you not being buried at home with him is already just so upsetting to my brother. But this issue with Si is on a whole different scale and I just need you to remain be her side momma as you would have in the flesh her on Earth. It’s times like these that we would lean on you and we don’t have you anymore and I just can’t be you. I need help with that on a daily basis. Anyway I hope you had a wonderful Heavenly Thanksgiving surrounded by all your cousins aunts uncles friends and my Jon. We love and miss you tremendously. Gone way to soon. This is the time in our lives where we needed you the most smh. I love you momma ☐

“ Hey Momma it's been a busy last few months but I'm sure you're aware I was able to make the trip back home so that grandma could finally meet your great grand babies. We also got word back from Zai's college as I'm sure you already know so I'm making sure she'll have her money on time for her spring semester start date. Also last weekend we celebrated your Dream's first birthday. We had fun but with every milestone these kids takes it only make me miss you more and wish you we're here in our presence. Life just still seems so much lonelier without you involved and present to give us all your advice, love and worldly support like only you've able to do all our lives. Your step grandkids are all doing well with Bre now being a mommy to her beautiful girl and Ashiana's baby girl is literally just a little over a month away from making her entrance. All the boys are doing well Chris seems to excel in football at school and his brother is also on the right track. I'm not sure how my step siblings are doing since the loss of you and Jerry. They don't talk to me much but I'm sure the girls are keeping them in the loop with us even if we don't talk directly. They all know how Kaleb and I and our attitude since loosing you so I'm sure they have they're reasons for not reaching out. Plus I'm sure the pain of loosing Jerry also plays a big factor into it all. It's just been so much grief with us all. I miss you every second of my day. I miss calling and updating you on things. I miss telling on these kids or getting your advice with my business or how to handle situations with these girls. Kaleb is also having such a hard time with TK. I'm hoping that your keeping her covered this go round. Help her get through this momma so that she can fill whatever hole she has in her heart and maybe this new journey will help her be a better daughter to my brother. I understand her concerns for him so I'll be getting with him this week and helping him find a good doctors and dentist. I hope your keeping all of our health covered momma. I'm just trying to be here for your girls and grands in any way I can. Please continue to help us all navigate through this life without you. I love you and I'm so sorry it's been so long since I last wrote. However I will leave a few good pictures down below for you.

“ Hey momma I miss you so much ☐ I just wanted to share on here with you Zai's prom and graduation highlights. I hope your up there happy momma knowing all your girls from me are actually done with high school. Despite our big move and transitioning into life without you. Her becoming a parent and me becoming a new Yaya I got her to the finish line momma. College is next and I'm really hoping that she can actually attend since we have come so far away for her to be able to attend. Idk what or if you had anything planned for your grandkids after your death but if you left them something Zai can use it real bad for school. I'm just at the end of my rope momma. I don't know what else I'm supposed to do. Idk struggling with my own business right now and I know you & God can see that. We need your help momma. Scholarship a school loan something's needs to come through or we're not going to make it this year. As of now it's not even looking like we'll be able to make the trip home. I don't know how much time we got left to even plan it. So I'll be saying a big prayer I guess. It just feels like it's a whole lot worse if prayers going on right now from everyone here on Earth. Yet it seems like Gods not either able or willing to help us all. I just don't know what's going on in this world right now. Anyway momma I hope you are dancing in the sky. So far your girls are all doing really well minus of course their individual attitudes. I love and miss you momma. Can't no one cover for us the way that you did 🥹

“ Thinking about you everyday Momma. It's been a whole lot going on but I do hope you loved the flowers we sent you for Mother's Day. As you are aware by now Bre and Dontorie graduated high school this past week in Georgia. I'm sure you would have been front and center cheering them both on as they walked across the stage. So now that makes 6 grands that's now completed high school and you still have 5 more to go. Zai's is coming up June 14th with Prom being this coming weekend June 4th. I'm asking you to walk with all of these babies momma. Watch after Zai after Prom as we both know it's the parties these kids attend that causes them to do stupid immature crap right before graduation or even right after. Help me keep her safe during this time and if you can help me gain the money we still need to pay for her college education. I miss talking to you so badly. This is all I have left so please help us be better and help my business continue to grow so that I can do more for your babies while I'm still here. I love you and miss you tremendously momma. Hug everyone for me as you know my heart and how much I miss Annette and Aunt Joann.

“ I miss momma ☐ but you'll be happy to know that Annette's home going service was all that she stood for. I was able to attend it online and best believe I did on behalf of you & grandma. Uncle Richard attended as he should have in support of Larry & Linda. I sat here watching trying to hold back tears 😭 but as they spoke about her life all I could do is cry. We have so many wonderful memories growing up with them . People spoke about her work for the Hilltop organization as well as who she was to our family. Her eldest son got up & spoke on his siblings behalf made me so proud because he's just like Kaleb taking in the pain but lost in so many ways. You can tell Dawn will now have to stand in her place just like I've had to stand in your place for my brother. Anyway it was a service we all could be proud of as everyone was social distancing and wearing mask as they should be. I got up early to attend her service and then we proceeded here to celebrate your baby Zai's birthday with all she wanted to do within reason of this Pandemic. I love you ❤️ I'll be back on Christmas Day 🙄

“ Heavenly Father

I hug my sister in my heart daily resting in the fact that you surely know better and so much more than I do as to why you allow things to happen the way they do. So much has changed. Love isn't always enough to show us the way to you. My sister used to say we would miss her when she's gone...and we do so much Lord. I often wonder if you planted those words in her heart to say. Give us the strength to carry on Lord during these trials and increase our faith that we be obedient to your word, not only because we've loss so many recently but because you say so in your word. Let us all learn from mistakes we linger in and repeat, but to focus to do your will in this life, because our chances to change are no longer possible when you call us into your presence.

Faith in Jesus is where we all need to live daily because that's what your word says will get us to you without fail in eternity. Keep my mom free from fears and stronger in faith. Watch over us ALL...heal hearts full of so much sadness from the loss of loved ones one by one. You never get over it but we do and should get stronger. I know you know best, I don't challenge that at all, but its not easy to see so much change so quickly so often. Suffering through with our loved ones gone. I pray remaining strong in knowledge of how you want and tell us to live, dismissing confusion, thoughts with anger and upsetting conversations that attacks without offering forgiveness to heal hurting hearts.

Thank you for your Holy Spirit and your teaching. I worship you knowing that forgiving others is for heart health being true to faith in your so Jesus following your word. A new year is coming by your grace and willingness to guide us into years to come with your loving peace. Father stop and hold back this virus from my family... my family has had enough Lord. Tell us what you want us to do, what you are saying to us that we can heal and get along with the sincere real love that you want us to have. I will never forget all that happened in 2019 and 2020...these are two years to reflect on how each of us should listen to you, and grow to learn, how we should live in your sight for you, before it's too late. Teach us that seek and know you and lead others to you gently to learn and know you better. This is my prayer, in Jesus name Amen and Amen.

Thank you momma for keeping him & my girls safe during this horrible Pandemic in our country. I’m still waiting for my day to shine & get back to work. “ Hey momma I just wanted to let you know how well your great grandson is doing. He’s getting big, eating well and he’s starting to laugh, smile and play more & more everyday. He looks a lot like Kaleb when he was a baby, but I guess that’s also you shining through him since my brother looks so much like you as well. We all miss you on earth with us. I always pictured me & Kaleb becoming grandparents with you being the hands on great grandmother just like you’ve been to your grands. I’m starting to get use to the thought of one of my kids being a mother now even though it came through the most unlikely source. I know God & you knew what you were doing since Zai does have more of a supporting family. I’m not alone in helping her raise him & get through school. Anyway she just took him to get him eat pierced and with the mean mug our family can carry on our faces it made him look even more like him great uncle KP. Other than that I’m still taking things one day at a time. Some days I cry more & some days I can laugh off great memories of things you’ve said or done. “ Missing you momma 😞 Everyday gets harder and not easier without you here. I'm at a point of a crossroads and I don't know what to do. It's so much going on that I could still use your advice or good laughs to help keep me focused and calm. I miss you every second of the day 🙏🏻👤👩 I wish you would come to me in my dreams like you have to others. I just need some guidance from you because I'm lost right now. I love and miss you

It was a sad sad day to be attacked verbally from one who believed the lies from another... inserted my name into a story while I was at home unknowing never a part of that evil...what I did not say or do...it was ALL untrue!!!

*It was a sad sad day to learn I am not loved. Its been so long It wasn't never love for me. Being attacked while I grieved my sister hurt even worse. Love doesn't / shouldn't hurt but people full of self righteousness for their gain is of their own PRIDE. I have Jesus to get me through each day and without a doubt, He loves me. I pray for them as I love “ Happy New Year mamma. I miss you and the girls do too. This past holiday season we truly missed your voice and laughed 😞 I missed sharing the kids excitement with you as their eyes filled with surprise and happiness. I didn't decorate or buy gifts the season just wasn't the same without you. I did cook dinner because I knew you would want us together with that. Other than that we stayed home and worked. Starting 2020 off without you just feels wrong like this wasn't supposed to be. So we're just going through the daily motions like always. Anyway I love and miss you mamma our lives just aren't the same anymore 😞

“ A prayer

Jesus,

I wanted and had plans to be and do so differently but the devil took a stand when we were all at our weakest time of grief, raised his ugly head and completed what he has tried so many times for years. Hitting hard but hard and you Father lifted me up soon after to understand you allowed it all for my good as you revealed the true hearts I was surrounded with lurking ready to get my reaction...Father, that was not love for me at all.

You Jesus the one who TRULY loves me came from a heart place of peace. I can't walk with the devil. He Kills, steals & destroys. Tearing apart families is what the devil does best and oh so well. Sadly not all can see or understand they are used by the evil one doing his ways of afflicting pain and heartache. They can only see them selves, and what they want.

My sister is now gone and I never would have imagined this ending after so many many years of listening, watching, trying to guide, supporting and caring while putting out the many fires for peace. Heart changes are so necessary and only your Holy Spirit can accomplish this, I will NOT get in your way.

I pray a turn to you soon for your saving grace. It's the only thing that will over come the evil wrongs in this life. Thank you for the good times you blessed me with in spite of the devils actions toward me. I cherish my good memories. So happy I to really know you unlike so many & I have you and your words to live by. I lean on for your super natural strength, comfort & guidance.

Self centered ways instead of being God centered...many know not about you because life is purposely taken by eye sight and not faith in my savior Jesus. This world is full of people making bad choices. Father, THANK YOU that I am never alone, that you know my heart, and YOU are the ONLY ONE who SINCERELY loves me. I am protected and safe in that I am sure. You touched my life in 2010 for reasons to prepare me for tribulations. I pray you watch over each one, protect, provide & take care for...while you Lord... pull each one in to you as I stay out of your ways and your work.

“ Missing my sister heavenly Father....So much has changed since you allowed her departure. I still grieve her and now others too. As the oldest I remember so much from a well rounded view of repeated actions with behaviors, lived through and noted, starting at the top. As disheartening as it is. I understand so much better. Thank you for being in my life, thank you Father, for the comforter helping me get through the hard times.

You touched my heart giving me wisdom to know scripture and see spiritually thru trials and tribulations. Since you Lord have come into my life, I completely understand so MUCH more than I did over the years. I am so thankful I can draw strength from you. I pray to you often for lost souls still here because I know that without the love of you Christ, without your life changing leadership taught from your infallible Word of Truth, sadly it will ALWAYS remain the same, even get worst. I pray your saving grace & mercy until your return.

“ Yes, I still look at your gift with fondness, realizing how much you loved me sister. and I love you right back!. You sent me a gift plaque more than 30 yrs ago telling me how much you love me as your sister, & how much I meant to you, mentioning all the good times we share over the years and how it got better and better each year. We couldn't have been any closer in our hearts then we were my sister. I loved you for that heart felt plaque and I continue to cherish your love & my hanging plaque ...it still hangs near me each day/night.

I am having another hard day without you...I have many hard days. I can't call you to hear your voice anymore...that hurts so bad. I want a do over sister, more time with you. I want to see your face, your smile, put my arms around you & hug you hard like I always did, even when you pushed me away saying stop that mush...I still gave you hugs and kisses. I want to hug you again right NOW!

I find it so hard as the days pass to get going. I pray asking for God's strength. to get through each day. How will I do that, you are part of me, I am empty.. YOU, are not here with me and my life will NEVER BE THE SAME! I can't believe it! I can't believe it, I JUST CAN'T BELIEVE IT!

Rest in peace my sweetheart-ed sister,

I pray for your children and grand children often, keeping them all lifted up to the Lord for his grace and mercy and especially His SALVATION! It's my birthday and she is not here with me...my heavenly Father, I just don't feel so happy on my birthday today. This is unreal, a haunting dream for me as the reality creeps in expectantly each day. She & I have shared our birthday month each year for many many years, but this year I'm without her. Lord, you allowed me to spend 62 yrs with her and I'm so thankful but it just wasn't enough. I know you know best but I always thought she & I would grow old together helping each other, watching our grands grow & mature, but you had another plan for my life without her. I accept that but it saddens my heart. We assumed we would discuss our aches and pains of aging together, but happily continue living our lives with you, able & willing together. I will always cherish the time together you gave us in this life, but I just don't understand...help me Lord, help me! I miss her presence in my life so very very much. Jesus strengthen me & help me overcome without her.*

We shared many happy occasions over the last 16 yrs with Kenece & her girls who I have always included with the number of my own grandkids, & through the years Denise & I watched these girls become beautiful young ladies. To Kenece & Kaleb, Mr. Jerry, Grandma GG, Sisters & Brothers, nieces, nephews & ALL the family - my prayers of comfort and strength are continually going up. God Loved her best & knew she had given you all her BEST, but she was tired. May she now have sweet eternal Rest in the arms of Christ. “ It is with heart-felt sadness that my family and I remember this beautiful woman who is the mother of my niece and nephew and grandmother to my 3 great nieces. I say the word "IS" instead of "WAS" as I deeply believe that our loved ones never, ever go away from us and every time we think of them, they are there with us each and everyday. Denise was a gift to all that knew and loved her. A wonderful and devoted daughter, mother, sister, grandmother, auntie; etc. A true blessing to her family. You are free now for always and forever!

Vanessa, I wish that I could have been there when you received the news so that I could have held you, Kenece, Kaleb and your family in my arms! Denise was a truly sweet and loving soul.

“ I remember like it was just yesterday my first date with Denise Lackey ,the mother of my children Kenece and Kaleb Parks , it was at Frischs restaurant down on Central Parkway in Cincinnati Ohio ,Denise was so beautiful ,I knew right then that I wanted a second date,that might be why my daughter Kenece likes Frischs so much.She will always have a place in my heart!

“ My loving baby sister...I sincerely miss your presence. My heart is so very heavy and I will struggle everyday to get along this side of life without you. Your smile, your laughter will be missed. I'm remembering all the awesome good times we shared. Your life was so precious, purposeful & beautifully meant to be. I will continue to love & care for all your 7 flowers.. (your daughter, son, & 5 grand children).
